

Pharma Hub Improves Performance with Market Access Services

Facilitating patient and provider access to gain access to specialty pharmaceuticals calls for streamlined processes aligning patients and brand manufacturers. Deploying staff to analyze explanation of benefits (EOBs), conducting annual benefit verification, and auditing patient calls help an integrated life sciences services company improve the care journey and assist the manufacturer to deliver therapy.

The Client

Our client, a technology-driven life sciences hub, facilitates patient and provider access to important medications. By connecting patients to branded drug savings, they have helped patients gain access to the necessary biopharmaceuticals for their care.

Challenge

- Need for pool of capable talent to analyze EOBs and identify payments due to patients or providers.
- Quality concerns for call center calls to patients to discuss claim denials.
- Severe staffing shortages during the short-term and labor-intensive annual benefits reverification process.
- The high costs for in-house services to meet their recent growth required major investments in staffing, administrative resources, and improving the end-to-end claims process.

"We depend on a partner who shows adaptability, responsiveness, and consistency in meeting our evolving needs to serve patients, their care providers, and drug manufacturers. Due to our trusted partnership with Omega Healthcare, we have expanded our scope to multiple business areas because of the expertise and staffing they provide us at every level."
